

Dr. Robert Glock honored for service to colleagues and industry:

Living out his belief that service involves giving more than receiving led Robert Glock, DVM, PhD, to receive the Academy of Veterinary Consultants (AVC) Outstanding Service Award. The award was presented in April and was sponsored by Intervet/Schering-Plough Animal Health. This award recognizes a member who has made outstanding contributions to AVC and the beef-cattle and veterinary medicine industries.

Dr. Glock was praised for his abilities as a teacher, mentor, researcher, diagnostician and friend to the AVC membership.

For the past 30 years, Dr. Glock has worked with a variety of people and animals in Iowa, Colorado and Arizona. A Nebraska native, he received his veterinary and doctorate degrees from Iowa State University. During his years in the industry, Dr. Glock says he has been fortunate to work with many students, young professionals and colleagues. He has been a diagnostic pathologist at the Arizona Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory since 1998.
